

This play depicts the relationship of monologue between political party leaders and people. It shows people as mute, passive and always awaiting orders. The performance of this play is typically followed by a Forum Theatre session.